Well, what a week it’s been. I suspect, after all the mayhem, we’re all feeling pretty much the same - exhausted, but pleasantly so. Book Week has certainly been a lot of fun and there have been many highlights. For me personally, it has been the enthusiasm of our students. Throughout this week, they have thrown themselves into every activity and shown genuine pleasure in each experience. They welcomed our guest readers, gave their full attention as each one read their favourite stories and asked thoughtful questions. This is the perfect reward for organising an event such as Book week. Of course, the other reward is the support the parents gave. I have really appreciated the way in which you have worked with teachers to make the week a success. It has been great to see so many of you in the library each morning helping your child ‘guess the book’. Likewise, the Mad Hatter’s Tea Party was made extra special because so many of you attended - all wearing the required silly hat. This parental support really enhances the programmes we provide for our students and distinguishes Mullaloo Heights from other schools. On this note, I must mention Mrs Fruin and her group of parent helpers who have spent the last few Wednesdays making resources for the Literacy Rotation that took place on Monday. Thank you! Your help was invaluable. I suppose we do have a few days to recover before the next big event – the Athletics Carnival, next Friday. I’m looking forward to seeing you all there, cheering for your children. In the meantime, have a restful weekend.

Book Week Assembly
Mr Drabble’s Brain Busters:

Try your hand at solving this week’s Brain Buster. Can you be one of the first to provide the correct solution? These ones are pretty easy!

Matchstick problems:

Can you move 3 matchsticks to make 3 squares with no matchsticks left alone?

How many ways can you solve this puzzle? Move 4 matchsticks to make 3 squares with no matchsticks left alone (Hint: there is more than one solution).

Once you have solved the puzzles, leave your solution at the front office with your name, class number and year level written neatly on it. Parents and grandparents are very welcome to enter as well.

Year 5 Groups
My Academy’s Group Tuition Programme goes beyond traditional group tuition. These groups are run by qualified teachers and look at the individual needs of each student. Each activity is differentiated so that all students can improve and benefit from the group setting.

Year 5 Group
The Year 5 groups will cover all of the main areas of the English and Maths curriculums, while also having a focus on GATE and scholarship exam preparation. The English groups will alternate writing and reading comprehension each week and the Maths will focus on a topic a week and relate these topics to problem solving and GATE style questions. Non-Verbal Reasoning questions will also be taught.
